WASHINGTON & LEE GAME

The football team furnished further proof of its right to be called the greatest team in the history of the University by overwhelming the Washington and Lee team on Saturday, November 7, at American League Park, in a clean, hard-fought game, by a score of 38-6. The visitors were outclassed at every stage of the game, but deserve credit for putting up a great fight.

The home team showed better team work than it has in previous games. Every man played his position well and the team was on the jump at every play.

Quarterback Byrd played a star game throughout. His handling of the team was beyond criticism, and his plays were always well timed. His quarterback runs were the feature of the game.

Metzker played a good game at left end. He got through the interference and nailed his man on every play that came his way. Crafts at left half was very fast, and his long runs through a broken field deserve credit. Captain Sommers and Hart, the tackles, played a good game in the line, and were sure ground-gainers. Sheridan was in every play, twice recovering the ball on fumbles.

For the visitors, Quarterback Fuerstein, the famous drop-kicker, was easily the star. He handled his team well and put up a plucky fight throughout. Twice within striking distance of the goal he tried his drop-kick, but was blocked on both attempts.

Captain Alderson, the visitors' fullback, also put up a good game. The game opened with Alderson kicking off to Eickhoff. Thrall made his distance around right end. Ellis added 8 yards and Hart went through tackle to the 25-yard line. A forward pass failed, the ball going to Washington and Lee. Metzker broke up an end run, forcing Alderson to punt Craft's circled right end for 10 yards, followed by Thrall for 10 more. Line attempts failing, Thrall punted to Fuerstein, who fumbled, Alston recovering the ball. Line plunges by Crafts, Ellis and Sommers carried the ball to the 4-yard line, Crafts going through right tackle for the first score. Witten kicked goal.

Alderson kicked off to Ellis. On the first play Thrall punted to Fuerstein. Barnard went through left tackle for 5 yards, followed by Alderson for 15 more. Fuerstein tried for a field goal, but Hart broke through and blocked the play, Sommers falling on the ball. Thrall punted to Fuerstein. After three attempts at the line Alderson punted to Crafts. Line plunges by the backs and tackles carried the ball to the 15-yard line. Quarterback Byrd sent the backs into the line on a fake play, and after the ends had been drawn in skirted right end for a touchdown. Witten missed goal. Score, 11-0.

The next touchdown came in the same way. The ball changed hands several times, Washington and Lee twice holding for downs on the 10-yard line. Finally, with the ball on the 25-yard line, Byrd worked his trick play again,

RIFLE TEAM.

The Rifle team of last year has elected J. Ralph Fehr as captain for the present season and R. W. Howell as manager. Mr. Fehr has presented to the Athletic Council the matter of organizing a club to affiliate with The National Rifle Association, and has received from them permission, and, still more important, funds to do so. This is a necessary step in the organization of inter-collegiate shooting, as The National Rifle Association initiates and conducts all matches. In the future it is hoped that as members of the Association we will secure more favorable provisions, and will not be forced to travel all the way to Boston to defend the championship which we now hold.

In joining the N. R. A. we must comply with certain regulations, the most important being that the team shall be members of the Club, and that the Club have as officers a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, etc.

In a short time rifles, to be used in practicing for the indoor meet, will be secured, and arrangements for a gallery made. All that needs to be done by the members is to go through the formality of organizing a club of twenty members and then get down to work and see who makes the team. Let every man who knows the butt of a gun from the muzzle help. Watch for notices to be posted in the College, and don't miss the first meeting. Come and learn to hit what you aim at.

CLASS PRESIDENTS MEET

TO ELECT OFFICERS.

Much Important Business Transacted.
Plans Discussed for Minstrel Show.

At a meeting of the Association of Class Presidents, Saturday evening, November 7, the following officers were elected:

President—Harry W. Houghton, Graduate Studies.
Vice-President—Kenneth F. Maxcy, Sophomore College.
Secretary—F. A. Crafts, Junior Law.

Treasurer—Ray T. Bailey, Senior Pharmacy.

Mr. Houghton, the newly-elected President, enters this year upon his third term as a member of the Association and his second term as its President. Last year he was Chairman of the Floor Committee for the Students' Ball, managed the Graduate Reception and had much to do with the success of the Minstrel Show. He has received the degrees of B. S. in Chemistry and Master of Science from this University, and is now a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. His services as Food Expert in the Department of Agriculture have already brought him into national prominence. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Pi Fraternity.

Mr. Maxcy, a record of whose achievements has already appeared in these columns, is a reliable end on the 'Varsity eleven. He is a member of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity.

A. Crafts, is also prominent in football circles, his star work at half having had much to do with the success of the team this season. This is his second year on the Varsity. He is a member of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity.

Ray T. Bailey, the Treasurer, has already taken a prominent place in University life. He gave evidence of his ability last year as Secretary of his class and as a member of the Rooters' Club.

After the election of officers, the question of the Minstrel Show was taken up, and it was decided to call a meeting of all students interested on the first Thursday in December. At this meeting a permanent organization will probably be formed and active work be immediately begun.

It is stated that a student has been found whose experience and qualifications give promise that, as Director, he will be able to surpass the excellent work of last year. Definite plans will be announced in later issues of The Hatchet.

The following classes were not represented at the meeting Saturday evening:

Senior Law.
Senior Medicine.
Junior Medicine.
Sophomore Medicine.
Senior Dental.
Junior Dental.
Freshman Dental.
Freshman Pharmacy.

It is earnestly urged that those classes which have not elected officers do so at once. Their names, including that of the Class Editor, should be communicated to The Hatchet as soon as possible.

AT OTHER COLLEGES.

The manager of student athletics at Stanford is in receipt of a letter from the crack Rugby team of the United Hospitals of London, asking for a game with the former if they should be able to make the trip.

California is to have a new Law Building, which is to cost $150,000, and is to be the best law library in the West, according to the Daily Californian. The building is to be of stone, and is expected to be completed by August, 1910.

Acting on his own initiative, President Harris, of Amherst, has announced that hazing in Amherst must be abolished. After a two years' controversy, in which the president and trustees were on one side and the Scarab, the senior society of the college, on the other, this action comes as a climax. The Scarab, however, clings to its determination that the first-year men should not entirely escape discipline, and has already established a set of rules to counteract the abolition of hazing.

A SUGGESTION TO THE GIRLS.

The girls of DePauw University rendered a Japanese Operetta recently for the benefit of the Athletic Association there.

Hereafter any man elected football captain at Chicago will be compelled to sign an agreement that he will graduate from the university before being given his captain's "C."

Sixteen hundred is the enrollment in the correspondence courses of the University of Chicago.

Women are to be admitted to the Graduate School of Johns Hopkins.

The University of Minnesota has added a course in photo-engraving to its Chemistry Department. This is the first attempt ever made by any institution to teach this kind of work.

The University of California will erect one section of a library building which, when completed, will cost $2,500,000.

The three "stunt" men who recently appeared in a comedy at Stanford were offered $300 per week for a sixteen weeks' circuit, but they refused.

Brown University has set aside $1,000 as prizes to students who excel in mathematics.

The University of Chicago may establish a course in preparation for the United States consular service similar to the School of Political Science of the George Washington University.

On November 3 Prof. Felix Adler, of Columbia, and Prof. Wm. M. Davis, of Harvard, the new American-Berlin exchange professors, made their inaugural addresses at the University of Berlin.

Dartmouth is to have a new gymnasium to cost $125,000. It will be built of reinforced concrete and will follow the Roman round arch type of architecture. The first floor will contain a large trophy room.

The University of Missouri has established a Department of Journalism. Consequently the university daily is no longer a typical college paper but a regular metropolitan journal. The students still do all the work, but it is under the supervision of professors and regular newspaper men. It has all the latest news by telegraph and runs a comic section.

The Board of Visitors of the University of Virginia have decided that the requirements for the B. A. degree shall not be changed. The decision of this question, which has been pending for two years, will make either Latin or Greek necessary for the degrees of master and bachelor of arts.

Results in Hard Won but Decisive Victory for Sophomores—Connor, Butman, Pipes, Simpson and Estler Play Brilliantly—Freshmen Fight Gamely, but Are Unable to Withstand Attack of Doughty Sophs.

Before a large crowd of spectators, consisting of 14 persons and a peanut vender, the Sophs completed the education of the Freshmen by showing them how to play football. The Freshmen never had a chance to win, and had it not been for the excessive high regard which the Sophs have for the Athletic Association, the score would have been much greater than it was. This may at first seem improbable, but it is really true, for their frequent fumbles were all that prevented the above said Sophs from scoring at least four touchdowns in each half, and these fumbles were the direct result of the Sophs' regard for the Athletic Association, for they were told to be very careful not to damage any of the football stuff lent for the occasion, and very obediently they handled the borrowed football very tenderly—so very tenderly that frequently their very footfalls jarred the football out of their grasp. Another consideration which kept the Sophs from piling up a huge score was the ever present fear that they might inadvertently hurt one of the little Freshmen, especially one of those Freshmen who played on last year's Sophomore team, on the Freshmen team of the year before that, and perhaps on numerous other class teams—you never can tell. And it would be a shame to hurt a man whose loyalty leads him to appear and play on a team, Freshman or Sophomore, year after year. Moreover, the vast audience probably caused more than one mighty Soph to quake with stage fright; at least, at times, the deafening applause made them nervous. For instance, when Butman broke through the Freshmen line and blocked a kick, and thirteen of the spectators stood up and cheered, and the other one up in the back of the stand whistled, Carl became so fussed and bashful that when he was given the ball and told to run with it, he only went two yards for fear the audience might think he was trying to show off. It must be admitted though that this modesty soon wore off, and later in the game Carl showed a disposition to snatch at Fame whenever an opportunity offered; and he usually attained his end, too, even though frequently when he snatched all he got hold of was one ankle.

Captain Connor unfortunately was not able to pull off many of the spectacular plays which made him a marked man on last year's Sophomore team, being kept busy picking up fumbled balls; but any way, Pipes, Irby and Estler made enough sensations for any team. Simpson also did some fine work, running a kick back 20 yards without interference, tackling, behind the line and such stunts.

The game was pleasingly free from accidents, the only injury to the Sophomore team being that sustained by Simpson's pompadour, dislocated in the second scrimmage; Jerry was game through and stuck it out. It is whispered that the overly large crowd was due to the fact that classes were suspended in the afternoon.

THE GAME.

Clark received the kick-off for the Sophs and was downed without gaining. Connor attempted a forward pass, but the ball striking the ground, a 15-yard penalty was received, and from the next line-up Irby punted to midfield. Keats called on Curtis for a punt, Butman smashed through the line and blocked the kick, Tucker falling on the ball. Clark made 6 yards through right guard, and Pipes continued the good work, pushing between left guard and tackle for 12 more. An end run was nipped in the bud, Irby's drop-kick couldn't find its way through the goal posts, and it was Freshmen's ball on their 15-yard line. Freshmen punted to midfield. Irby went through left tackle for 8 yards and Clark made it first down through right. Pipes made 2 yards on a line plunge, Clark repeated for 6, and Irby again made first down. Sophs being penalized 15 yards for off-side play, punted to Fresh 15-yard line, and downed the ball on the LAW.

Those who have had Dr. Scott in any course can recall the times when considering a decision by some great Judge, how the Doctor would stop and heave a sigh, and say, "There was a great Judge," and then to the delight of the class would proceed to tell you something about the personality of that Judge. We would then read the decision, if it was one of Lord Eldon's, which previously had seemed dull and nebulous, with renewed avidity and interest, and there would then be some remote probability of understanding and remembering the case, which otherwise was not very likely. What College man when reading a decision by Lord Bowen would not find the case more interesting if he knew that the man who decided that case was one of the greatest athletes of his day; or a case where Curran, who said when pleading a case and the soldiers were aroused to see that he made no improper remarks, "You can assassinate me, but you cannot intimidate me."

A knowledge of the personality of the one with whom you come in contact creates greater interest in the person. The personal contact other than in the class room between the professor and the student is practically limited to asking a few questions after class and meeting the professor at an annual smoker, if the professor is there, and if his time is not monopolized with talking "shop" by one with an interminable number of questions. It therefore seems advisable, not in order to create interest in the subject which the professor teaches, but in order that there may be a feeling of closer acquaintanceship between professor and student, to sketch briefly something of the personalities of the men who compose the law faculty. In succeeding issues of The Hatchet there will appear, when we have the time, inclination and nothing else to write, sketches of the various members of the faculty of the Law Department.

COLUMBIAN DEBATING SOCIETY.

The Columbian Debating Society held its regular meeting Friday night, November 6th, at which the following question was discussed: "Resolved, That the Constitution be amended so as to provide for the election of President by direct popular vote, instead of through electors." Messrs. W. W. Simmons, Stanley H. Fischer and R. W. Chilcott represented the affirmative side, and the negative was upheld by Messrs. S. H. Lilly, J. T. Swift and H. S. Cathin.

A spirited debate was held and the arguments on both sides were ably presented. The judges, Messrs. Hemmick, Smith, and Catlin, awarded the decision to the affirmative, giving first and second honors, respectively, to Messrs. Simmons and Lilly.

Owing to the fact that quite a few of the members of the society had gone home to vote, the attendance was not as large as it usually is, but what was lacking in numbers was made up in spirit. All the debaters had their subject well in hand and presented their arguments clearly and forcibly. The men who made their appearance for the first time are especially to be congratulated on their handling of the question and presentation of the arguments, and with this new material Columbian, which has been known for its able debaters, will continue to maintain its splendid record.

After the debate general discussion of the question ensued, in which the visitors present participated. Columbian has been quite fortunate in having a number of visitors attend its various meetings and present their views on the subject under consideration.

It was suggested that in order to create enthusiasm at the meetings that each member, in addition to bringing himself to the meeting, also bring a friend, and that every one should constitute himself a committee of one for that purpose.

In this connection it is hardly necessary to again reiterate anything about the advantages and benefits to be derived from debating; especially for men who expect to practice law. One cannot state a proposition clearly in court if he has never before had practice, and a good deal of practice too. Every lawyer should be able to express himself clearly, concisely, and forcibly, and nowhere can he better learn to do this than in the debating society; when, as frequently happens, he must be put into an eight or ten-minute speech what he could very easily say in twenty or thirty minutes; and in addition to this he gets a certain power of discrimination which he can get nowhere else, and which is highly beneficial, to say the least. Too frequently in expressing themselves lawyers use words, as Talleyrand says, "to conceal thought—not to communicate it." Everyone should join and attend the debating societies, and DO IT NOW.

Y. M. C. A.

On Friday, October 23, the real work of the College Y. M. C. A. was launched. This day had been set for the election of officers for 1908-1909. Nominations had been posted on the bulletin board for a week preceding the day of election, so that the student body might vote intelligently, or make any suggestions that might be deemed advisable.

By universal acclaim the following persons were elected to office in the Student Y. M. C. A.: President—Ernest R. Eaton. Vice-President—Irving R. Saum.

Treasurer—James M. Berry. Secretary—Roy L. Newhouser. Secretaries, or Chairmen of Committees: Religious Work—Edgar Cordell Powers.

Social Work—Max W. Winter. Membership—C. C. Lambert. The broad platform adopted by the Y. M. C. A. this year is a prophecy of splendid work. Several men, whose assistance and personality will be of inestimable value to the Association, have consented to put their shoulders to the wheel. Among these are the two new secretaries, Max W. Winter and C. C. Lambert.

There are some splendid opportunities offered this year to any men who will take advantage of them, in the way of Bible study. Mr. Covell asks all men who are interested in this work to hand him their names, and the hours at which they can attend a student Y. M. C. A. Class. Several men have volunteered to lead these classes, among them Messrs. Covell, Powers, and Albert Frias, of Montevideo. Mr. Frias is a new student in the University, but a man of broad culture and fine Christian character. He is connected with the Uruguay Legation, so that he has official duties of great importance, as well as his university work to occupy his time. Nevertheless, he has consented to take a class, either on Thursdays or Fridays, at 11 o'clock. Student, don't let these opportunities slip!

You who are reading this page, keep your eyes open for Y. M. C. A. news. You will find something of interest to you in the Association if you are interested in the best things, as every college man is.

The principal feature of the meeting, at which officers were elected, was a brief address by President Eaton, in which he spoke of the Student Conference at Northfield and the plans of George Washington Association for the coming year. Concluding, he said:

"The Association starts out with a group of men in office that will do credit to the University and Y. M. C. A. We have never before had such a representative bunch of fellows in office, and everyone of these, 'my' men, are in absolute sympathy with Y. M. C. A. work. We need only one thing more. That is the co-operation of every man in this University to make the Y. M. C. A. the finest thing here."

COLLEGE FRESHMAN.

The only excitement in the Freshman class during the last two weeks was another class (?) meeting, and the frantic but futile attempts of the treasurer to squeeze $3.00 out of the freshmen. At the class meeting a report was made by the Entertainment Committee which led to the selection of the Arlington for the class dance. The date is Friday, November 20. All Freshmen are urgently requested not to ask a girl until they have paid "the lad who is doing stunts in the high jump," affectionately known to his classmates as Myron. Seriously, though, if this affair is to be a success, it is up to the Freshmen to get in line right away, and show their class spirit and sportsmanship by paying this week.

At said class meeting Coach Hamilton, of Central fame, (ahem!) made a most stirring appeal for candidates for the Freshman Class football team. As he expressed it, "All Freshmen who would like to get a taste of real football, not to mention a crack at the Sophs, will hand their names to me."

It will interest all to know that Mr. Keats was elected class-orator at that same meeting. Mr. Keats made a speech of acceptance which alternately moved his audience to tears and laughter. Oh! we've got a orator, we have!

During these times of frat initiations several freshmen have been observed to walk in such a manner as suggested hard times. The other day when Professor Woodbridge started to translate a story about "our gentle little goat," several of the new frat men glanced apprehensively around, while a look of fond remembrance came into the eyes of others.

PHARMACY.

Prof. Kalusowski has started his double-barreled, rapid-fire, repeating note-book work, to occupy the attention of the students on the nights when they do not attend school. The object is to obtain from the boys attention to their work, instead of letting them devote their time to theatres.

Pharmacy will turn out in full force in the future at all athletic contests, and will be heard, if not seen. They all have strong voices, especially after they get their nip of the jollification fluid.

The Junior notes were received too late for publication last week, but appear in this issue.

A few weeks ago everything seemed to progress rapidly and firmly for the organization of a Fraternity in the Department of Pharmacy. Now it appears that the earnestness of a few is to go for naught, owing to class partisanship. The greatest danger, which was thought to have been passed, has again appeared, and now confronts us with confidence of success. A few unintentional and misunderstood remarks by members of the different classes has been sufficient to cause a rupture in the temporary Fraternity. A Fraternity, it must be understood, is never a class organization, but for the Department or School at large, and until this idea is accepted in our department, it is useless to hold further meetings and solicit contributions. The idea conceived by a few, and so successfully carried out by Mr. Wilson and his associate committeemen, while the students were working harmoniously with the one object in view of establishing a Fraternity for the benefit of the College in general, should be sufficient to show us that it is necessary, in order to attain success, that we all pull together.

Outside of the class disagreements there seems to be a clique who are endeavoring to run things their way, and instead of working together for one common cause, it seems to be the desire of each class and clique to be dictator, and run things their way, regardless of the ill-feeling it creates.

Mr. Wilson, who should be complimented upon his earnest endeavors, is unjustly criticised and condemned by a few, simply because he favored a motion that would accept all as charter members until a permanent organization had been established.

A man should never be condemned for what he thought was right, and in Mr. Wilson's case I am inclined to believe that he believed he was right, and had the courage to stand by his convictions and perform his duty as he saw it, regardless of whom he offended.

The desire of the clique and each class to run the organization has placed it in an unenviable position, where it will undoubtedly stay until the boys realize the necessity of working together for the benefit of the Department Fraternity instead of making it one for a class.

The attention of the student will now be directed to the annual smoker of this Department. Each class is requested to appoint a committee of three, to act with committees from the other classes, to arrange for this entertainment.

SENIORS.

This class received its first installment of home note-book work from Prof. Kalusowski last week. The Seniors, who have been dreaming that this would be dispensed this year, must wake up and get busy.

At the regular meeting of the class last Thursday the reports from the committee were heard. Owing to neglect of the chairman of the Pin Committee, a special meeting will be called next Thursday to decide upon a pin, which should have been done today. The Class Editor is the chairman, and justly rebukes himself.

Tewksbury was present at Prof. Waggaman's lecture on Thursday last. Whether he was on time I am unable to state, because I was almost on time myself.

Question—What is steam?

Answer—Steam is water gone crazy with the heat.

What did T. Q. Jones say on Friday night in the chemical laboratory? Mr. Jones, after spending about 10 minutes in weighing out some soda-carbonate, had the misfortune to let his foot slip and spill it. Then we were entertained with a few remarks which we will leave out this time.

Quotations from Prof. Waggaman:

A little learning intoxicates the brain,

A little more sets it right again. Seniors—How little we mortals know.

Who, who, who, who, who, who, who is the friend of the editor? Lady, lady, who can she be, who is the editor—lady friend of our editor?—W. S. Jones.

JUNIORS.

Who said this class had sharpshooters? "Shorty" Harbaugh hasn't hit anything yet; but he is not alone—there are others. Never mind, "Shorty," the sight was on the bum. If you don't succeed, suck eggs!

We are glad to know Mr. Kenner's teeth are not as loose as they were several weeks ago.

Who asked Prof. Waggaman to have a cigar? Who smoked it?

JUNIOR PHARMACY.

Oh! How we do love those lectures on Microscopy!

Wilson views an object through the microscope by means of a mouth-piece.

Near artists in Junior Class—Feller, Wilson and Hogan.

Lampman really got to class on Saturday before 4 o'clock. Blessed be sleep, etc.

THE BATTLE WON. Taft.

Take advice from Teddy.

Election is now over and we have returned to the city and to the dear old fireside once more, and Bill Taft is IT. Gentlemen, you now have prosperity assured you four years more. Why not those of you who have neglected to sign a Hatchet subscription blank do so at once? To-morrow may be too late. Boys, we can't afford to let the Seniors beat us—we need that record. We can get it. Do not lower your class standard for the small sum of a dollar and a half. Anything in the way of news or subscriptions will be cheerfully received. News of any kind will be greatly appreciated.

That member of our class, Mr. Frank Marsden, who was requested to present himself on the field to play football for George Washington and who formerly played quarter-back for Technical High School, regrets very much that the limited time he has at his disposal will not permit him to indulge in his favorite pastime this season, but expect to be Johnnie-on-the-spot next year.

Prof. Waggaman wants us all to help our fellow-man. Jenkins started in last Monday when he tried to relieve Besson of a ten-cent lunch. Keep up the good work, Jenk. We hope the free lunch spirit is catching.

NOTICE:—I would like to correct an error which appeared in last week's Hatchet. Mr. Mangum wishes to state that he has decided not to rent his FIERY NECK PIECE, but will probably use the same as a danger signal to the numerous society belles who are continually besieging him with their pink tea affairs.

PHYSICS—Who said so? Why that boy Besson has got that dope by the neck. Don't squeeze too hard, old pal; you're liable to choke it.

Tell your troubles to your Class editor. He may be able to help you.

The attention of the members of the various classes is called to the necessity for prompt class organization. All important student activities of a general nature are controlled by the Association of Class Presidents, and the efficiency of this body is being seriously impaired by the dilatoriness of certain classes. These classes in their turn are losing their rightful representation on the Association.

At the time when the Class President is elected it is extremely important that some one should be designated as Class Editor. Preferably one student should serve for both The Hatchet and The Cherry Tree. The Hatchet depends entirely for its department news upon the various class editors, and the early start of The Cherry Tree this year means that some tardy classes may lose their representation in the book.

It is to be hoped that the appeal of The Cherry Tree, published in our last issue, will meet with a prompt response. Subscribe now, and save this valuable publication to the University.

The much heralded Students' Union has seemingly relapsed into a semi-comatose condition. In the meantime a valuable room is being wasted. Somebody, the officers, the furniture dealer or the University, should wake up.

ARCHITECTURE.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY ARCHITECTURAL CLUB.

On the last Monday of October, the twenty-sixth day of the month, the George Washington University Architectural Club held its first meeting of the year, '08-'09. Mr. Simon Peter Wagner, the President of the Club last year, presided.

Besides Mr. Wagner, the following members were present: Mr. Geare, Vice-President; Mr. McAuley, Secretary; Mr. Knowles, Treasurer, and Messrs. Garland, Buckingham, Doyle, Blackley, Greenburg, Cash, Hart, Stuttler, Fuerst and Bolton.

Mr. Wagner rose to thank the club on his own behalf as President, and on behalf of his fellow officers, for the honor that had been conferred upon them, and for the courteous cooperation and constant support the members had given them in all of their undertakings and endeavors for the uplifting and advancement of the Club.

The first business to be transacted at the first meeting of the Club each year, as stated in the constitution, is the election of officers for the ensuing year.

The result of the election is as follows:

Mr. Wm. Alexander Knowles, President.

Mr. Reginald Wickliffe Geare, reelected Vice-President.

Mr. Hugh Nisbet McAuley, reelected Secretary.

Mr. Burton James Doyle, Treasurer.

Immediately after the election the Club adjourned.

The next meeting of the Club will be held on Monday, November 9, 1908.

The Club wishes to thank the officers, '07-'08, of the Club, Mr. Wagner, Mr. Geare, Mr. McAuley, and Mr. Knowles, for the successful manner in which they conducted the Club. The union of the Club is stronger than ever; this has been proven over and over again.

The editor recently heard rumors that strange things had happened after the Architectural Club had adjourned and all the members had either gone home and were tucked in bed for a good night's rest or had started in for a good night's work. So with true cunning and by the scientific deduction so clearly demonstrated by Mr. Osgood Holmes' English cousin, he peeled away the bark and exposed the kernel, which is now at last placed before the public in its true light.

It seems that for several days a sign had hung on the bulletin board which read as follows:

MONSIEUR PAUL P. CRET,

Architect of the Bureau of American Republics, will lecture on his work in the Beaux-Arts School of Paris, at 8:30 p. m. on Monday night, October 26th, in the Club Room. Refreshments will be served.

All students are required to be present.

So at the appointed time the Club Room was crowded, and the refreshments, consisting of fruits and salad, cheese and crackers, ham and dogs, and pink tea lemonade, were brought forth and all made happy and gay.

All the new and ancient appropriate songs were revived (not that they were sung) and many a clog and breakdown was started and the table made a fine rostrum for short men to make speeches from. The only regret of the evening was that Mr. Cret was unable to appear and give the lecture, and also that Lysistrates was not able to appear in person: poor fellow, he's gone.

Even the casts, which Mr. Bairstow was good enough to present to the Club last year, enjoyed the good time. The acanthus leaves became bright and green and grew several inches, and the Club goddess of love and beauty clapped her armless hand in complete approval, while the rosette became a gigantic floral clock and struck the ghostly hour of twelve.

About this time, one by one, the Freshmen began to mysteriously disappear. * * * * * Where? * * * * *

Then, not long after, a long line of unrecognizable specimens of humanity emerged from the building devoted to the Division of Architecture with hands tied behind and then all tied to one long rope. Black and red streaks were upon their faces, while ribbons and rags and signs were hung all about them.

Down to Pennsylvania Avenue they went—with a howling mob driving them on.

After marching about for some time, finally they were halted before the statue of Franklin, on the Avenue, and all made to crowd about it. Then they were made to sing some songs and practice some yells—and after that turned loose.

One man escaped from the line and several others constantly tried to do so. They regretted it, however. Winlock, of Western H. S., who was unable to show up at the lecture, was discovered and captured and made to go through the mill.

Thus endeth the chronicles of Book I of the Reign of Billy Knowles. What happened after that and for several days following lies in darkness. May it rest in peace. * * * * *

On Friday evening, October 30, a criticism of the recent school problem was given. The subject was a Monumental Lighthouse. Mr. Remy, Assistant Professor of Architecture, gave the criticism. Mr. Garland was given second place, as none were deemed worthy of a first place, while Mr. Buckingham and Mr. McAuley tied for third. The faculty were pleased with the result of this esquisse-esquisse. About twelve designs were handed in. The problem was one which allowed of a great deal of interesting design, and all the students enjoyed the work put upon it.

Saturday, the seventh of November, marks the day upon which the Beaux Arts drawings for the latest problem are to be finished and sent to New York.

The Class B Plan Problem has caused some little comment. The title is an Overhead Railway Station of Steel Construction or of Wood. The objection is that it is entirely an engineering problem. So it is. Yet the engineer doesn't really care whether an Overhead Railway Station is an eyesore or not, so long as it is erected at a minimum cost. Therefore it falls upon an architect to put up an interesting structure.

Messrs. Foster, Garland, Buckingham and Greenburg will send off designs for the Overhead Station. While Messrs. Doyle, Knowles, Russell, Adams, Blackley and Brodie will send in designs for the "Class B Order Problem," a connection between two buildings.

We would like to know where Blackley's pompadour cap has gone to. It's one of those new kind with hardly a brim and looks like a rubber bathing cap, such as women use to protect their hair from the salt water at the seashore. Blackley lost a cap and found a black-eye all at the same time. It was lost on the Avenue half way between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning (election night) last week. Finder, please return cap and receive back the black eye.

Someone sat a few seats behind Buckingham at the National Theater on Friday night, the thirtieth of October. "Buckie" had two fine young ladies with him. The show was "Fluffy Ruffles." Needless to say, they sat in the orchestra. Must have been pay-day for "Buckie."

The other day all the big spools, upon which the electric cables are wound on Lafayette Park were rolled away. You'll have to find something else to play with "Reggie."

We are doing phenomenal work in anatomy for freshmen. One member of the class has already discovered a bone not known to exist before. The fact that there is a Presidential election this year may have something to do with "Mac's" discovery.

CLASS ELECTIONS.

R. L. Newhouser has been elected temporary chairman of Senior College. A meeting for permanent organization will be called shortly.

At a meeting of Junior College, November 5, Loren R. Manville was elected President; Miss Rena P. Davis, Vice-President; Miss L. Ruth Alden, Secretary; F. J. Veilmeyer, Treasurer, and J. J. Reves, Assistant Treasurer and Class Editor.

ENGINEERING COLLEGE.

At the meeting of the Senior Class of Columbian College, held Saturday evening, November 7, the engineers contained in that class decided to separate and form a Senior Class of the Washington College of Engineering.

A constitution modeled after that of the Senior College Class was adopted and officers were elected. The officers are:

President—A. M. Damals.
 Vice-President—Philip Ward.
 Secretary—K. G. Acker.
 Treasurer—Geo. W. Easterday.

At a meeting of the Political Science students last Saturday, E. P. Gates was chosen temporary chairman. A meeting for permanent organization will be called shortly.

The following officers were elected at a meeting of Graduate Studies, November 5:

President—Harry W. Houghton.
 Vice-President—Miss Catharine McAvoy.
 Secretary—E. W. Boughton.
 Class Editor—Robson Brown.

FRESHMAN DANCE

November 21, at the Arlington Arts and Science, students only. Particulars later.

SYRACUSE DEBATE.

It is announced that the subject for the debate to be held shortly with Syracuse University, is:

"Resolved, That the open shop promotes the interests of the laboring classes better than the closed shop."

This question was submitted by George Washington, and Syracuse has elected to uphold the negative. Messrs. Schreiber, Kennedy and Gates constitute the team, which will debate at Syracuse. The date of the contest has not yet been definitely settled.

Nothing has been done, as yet, in regard to the challenge from the University of Cincinnati. Georgetown has not yet replied to the challenge sent to that institution.

A meeting will be held shortly to perfect the organization of the newly authorized chapter of the honorary debating fraternity, Delta Sigma Rho.

The students of the Veterinary College have organized an association to be known as the "Veterinary Students' Association of the George Washington University." The following officers have been elected for the year:

Honorary President—Dr. B. T. Woodward.
 Honorary Vice-President—Dr. J. Lockwood.
 Honorary Secretary—Dr. A. V. Hall.
 President—J. Chamberlain.
 Vice-President—J. N. Hornbaker.
 Secretary - Treasurer—G. H. Koon.
 Sergeant-at-Arms—J. Dillon.
 Board of Directors—J. Chamberlain, G. W. Brett, C. L. Close.

The Purdue team is going through scrimmage by daylight and afterward working on the field by electric light.

The Deutscher Verein of Cornell will present "Alt Heidelberg" in the new German Theater, New York, on Monday, November 16. The play was presented in Ithaca last year with great success.

and circled the end for a touchdown. Witten missed goal. Score, 16-0.

Washington and Lee made the next touchdown. Fuerstein sent the ball to the 5-yard line on an onside kick. It was fumbled and Captain Alderson recovered it. On the third attempt he took the ball over. Fuerstein kicked goal. Score—G. W. U., 16; W. and L., 6.

The second half was cut to 15 minutes, the home team making 4 touchdowns. Crafts made several runs of 25 and 30 yards through a broken field. On one play around right end, with Sommers as interference, he made 65 yards, Thrall making 5 more for a touchdown. A little later Crafts caught a forward pass by Fuerstein and ran 75 yards for a spot. Two line plunges netted the Freshmen 6 yards, Sophs getting ball on next play by spoiling an end run. After Irby had made 2 yards through right tackle the Sophs lost the ball on a forward pass. The Freshmen, however, were unable to gain and Curtis punted to Pipes. Irby first made 5 yards around right end, and then smashed through the line, leaving the ball behind him on the ground for a Frosh to drop on. A failure to get around right end, and a quarterback run illegally pulled off, again forced Curtis to kick to Pipes, who showed his appreciation by returning 10 yards to the middle of the field. Simpson dashed into the limelight and at the same time around right end for a healthy gain. Pipes tried left end, fumbled, and recovered. Irby made 3 through tackle, Clark lost 2 and dropped back for a field goal. The kick was blocked, but Clark recovered the ball and ran it back to the scrimmage line. Sophs made 3 yards on a line plunge, and then made a change in the line-up in order that a few more Sophs might win glory. Connor recovered a couple of fumbles and then startled the Freshies by giving Estler the ball twice in succession. The first time Harry demoralized right tackle to the extent of 5 yards; the next he advanced 12 before a half dozen Freshmen were able to push his nose into the ground and sit on him. Connor recovered a fumble, Pipes got 9 yards around end, and Clark made first down. Estler pulled off another cross-tackle plunge—11 yards this time. With 15 yards to go for a touchdown, three line plunges didn't quite add up to 10 yards, Freshmen taking advantage of their opportunity to punt. Sophs betrayed their generosity by letting the poor Freshies get the ball on a fumble, Simpson downed a halfback for a 5-yard loss. Butman was ungenerous, refusing to let a Frosh get by him with the ball, so Curtis had to punt. Bliss waived his claim to pigskin, a Freshman accepting with thanks. Estler got in the way of the next play, and a Freshman with a ball under his arm unexpectedly found himself lying on the ground 8 yards behind the scrimmage line, clasped in Harry's loving embrace, and once more the poor Freshmen had to punt.

Again the Sophs carried the ball to within speaking distance of the goal, lost the ball, worked back the punt, fumbled, and when the half was called were playing a strong, offensive game within the enemy's 25-yard line.

SECOND HALF.

Irby kicked to Freshmen full-back and Pipes downed him on 5-yard line. Two Freshmen line plunges, netting only 4 yards, Curtis punted. Bliss made a good catch and came back 20 yards. Freshmen line braced and held for downs on their 25-yard line. Keats tried a quarterback run, was thrown back, fumbled behind the line, but by a quick recovery made a safety, keeping his team from having a touchdown marked against it.

Score—Sophomores, 2; Freshmen, 0.

Cockrell punted from his 25-yard line to Simpson, who got back 25 before being stopped.

Estler found a hole in the line that was good for 5 yards and Butman added a couple more. Keats couldn't get under Irby's punt, the ball rolling toward the Freshmen's goal line, pursued by a mixture of Sophomores and Freshmen. Keats got it just as it was crossing the line and, assisted by Pipes, made a touch back.

Freshmen punted out from 25-yard line and downed Pipes before he could get started. Then just to show that there was no hard feeling, Pipes went through tackle for 3 yards, and then on a fake kick started end, gaining 15 yards. Simpson started around right end, but was stopped before he got well started. Butman was more successful, making 8 yards. Not having fumbled for some time the Sophs tried one on the next play, Lou Connor recovering, of course.

Irby punted to Freshmen 3-yard
